Creating Your Own Mandala
 Have you found yourself doodling on a piece of paper when you were having a difficult discussion with someone? Would you be surprised to know that the doodling had a message for you from your subconscious? Come and let's explore the fine art of creating a Mandala, which is a fancy name for doodling messages, from your own subconscious using the medium of color. You don't need to be an artist. If you enjoy putting colors together for an interesting picture, this is for you. You can use one of the many patterns available, or try drawing one on your own. You will be surprised what you will find out about yourself.

As consumers, we put our trust in the manufacturers who produce the products we purchase. Do consumers have a right to know what they are buying? This seminar provides useful information to help you determine how to identify the best products to purchase for your business or home.

Promote Your Local Business with Articles

Article marketing is a very powerful way to market your business online, and yet very few local businesses use it. This technique is inexpensive and can create a steady stream of leads visiting your website or store front; leads that are ready to take action or make a purchase. However, to get the return on time you spend writing articles, you need to know how to do it correctly, especially if you focus on a local market, not a national one. This course will show you the basics and guide you through completing your first article.

Customer Service in the Hospitality and Service Industry

Customer service is critical if you want your business to have a competitive edge. Failure to provide quality service can cause loss of revenue beyond what you would expect. Remember the saying, "For every person you make happy that person will tell another person about the good experience, but every person you make unhappy will tell ten people to make sure they let everyone know how bad the experience was." The most important part of a service industry job is to understand that you are the "face of the business." You represent a business or restaurant every time you step out in the front of the house and meet the customer face to face. This seminar is for those seeking employment or are already employed in the hospitality or service industry. It is important for managers as well as staff.
