Mini Maker DIY Hack Camp

Ages 7-11

For more information, call (510) 790-5546

As a Maker or a Hacker, young people will have fun learning to 'hack' a solution to a problem or make a fun craft using odds-and-ends of common household objects, duct tape and other fun things. Have you seen the Rube Goldberg contraptions that make something happen? A Rube Goldberg apparatus is a deliberately over-engineered or overdone machine that performs a very simple task in a very complex fashion, usually including a chain reaction. We are going to look at some basic machines and techniques (like an animal trap or a toaster) and figure a way to improve it. Everything will be safe and well thought out as we will engineer that into the solution. Bring a snack, lunch, and water. Registrants may enroll in Extended Care at the Central Park Teen Center from 8:00-9:00AM and/or 3:00-6:30PM. See page 38 for more information!

You will have to get them out without breaking or scratching them. That's not that easy. You will get an excavation tool, specimen brush, log book, sorting trays and labels. You will, as a Prospector, record the color, both wet and dry texture, and its ability to float for each of the 10 specimens you dig out. Make an educated guess with our help to whether each one is a rock, gem, or fossil. See how good you are. You will learn from us the exact name and classification. CODE FOR FUN!

For more information, call (510) 790-5546

'In technology, the only limit you have is your imagination.' In 2020, colleges are expected to graduate only 13% of the computer science engineers that will be needed on the job market. Exposing students earlier to programming increases their chance by 30% to continue in this field later on in their studies, and to get one of the most amazing jobs that will be available. If your child is inquisitive about technology, Code for fun gives an opportunity to feed his or her interest while having fun through discover that computer science is an awesome opportunity to create and influence others. And just look at the educational and yet so-much-fun camps we are offering this summer! Our instructors make it fun, interactive and help students build character strengths along the way to become good engineers. Bootstrap (Game Design)

Ages 11-15

MATH + CODING = YOUR OWN GAME. If you have done some block programming and are ready to try real coding, this program is for you! However, no previous coding experience is required. Bootstrap teaches algebraic and geometry concepts through computer programming (Racket Code). At the end of the camp, students have a complete workbook filled with word problems, notes and math challenges, as well as a video game of their own design, which they can share with friends and family. Students will also learn image editing in order to personalize their characters in the game. This class is specifically designed for students who enjoy problem solving, math and creating games. We also balance the time with other activities related to computer science that we can do outside (race coding) so the students have some off-screen time.

Ages 9-14

We are offering a week of fun-filled learning! Campers will work on their photography and camera techniques learning all sorts of fun photography tips and tricks, interacting with other shutterbugs, and learning how to improve picture taking with a digital camera. We will be focusing on understanding your camera and how it works, exploring your camera's shooting modes and settings, operating antique apertures and shutter speeds to understand the latest tools, exploring your camera's focus mode and focus areas, and experimenting with lighting and flashes. Each attendee must have access to a functional digital camera. Nothing too fancy, but we recommend a point and shoot camera with some manual capability to maximize the photography experience. Instructor will make his best effort to monitor the careful use and safekeeping of all cameras, but some risk remains.

Matting & Cutting for DIY Beginners

Ages 14 & up NEW!

Displaying artwork well shows respect to the work, to the artist, and to the space in which the art is displayed. Mats and frames are universally accepted and used in the display of flat art, but can be expensive — in the hundreds of dollars — to purchase. We will use pre-cut mats and pre-assembled frames to demonstrate the most basic process. Then we will cut mats ourselves with basic tools, plus specialized tools, then assemble frames from components. Attendees can expect to have at least one finished piece of framed, matted flat art ready to hang. Home practice and follow-up critique will be included.
