ELA: Unpacking NexGen ~ Close Reading/Reciprocal Teaching & Vocab

Date: 1/15/19

Close reading involves rereading to highlight, underline, reconsider points, ask and answer questions, consider author's purpose and word choice, develop fluency, and discuss the text with others. Close reading keeps students focused as they make meaning and dig deeper into texts for different purposes. Reciprocal teaching, or the "Fab Four", is an effective and research-based reading discussion technique that works well for a close reading routine and yields dramatic results. To prevent the dreaded "eye-roll" and boredom from reading the text multiple times, this workshop will demonstrate an interactive lesson sequence that features practical ways to engage students in close reading lessons. The protocol features proven strategies from close reading, reciprocal teaching, along with a dash of fluency. Participants will observe, discuss, and practice various ways to design and implement this strategy in the classroom (informed by NEXGEN ELA Standards)

Audience: Teachers, Instructional Coaches, Pre-K - 12

Interdisciplinary: Culturally Competent Classroom Management

Date: 1/17/19

Culturally Responsive Classroom Management (CRCM) is an approach to running classrooms with all children, [not simply for racial/ethnic minority children] in a culturally responsive way. Definitions and expectations of appropriate behavior are culturally influenced, and conflicts are likely to occur when teachers and students come from different cultural backgrounds. Misreading behaviors or communication patterns of culturally and linguistically diverse students can lead teachers to see them as having a disability, or lacking self-control. CRCM is a way of thinking, a pedagogical approach that guides the classroom management decisions that teachers make. This workshop will assist teachers to: 1) Be more aware of their personal biases and perceptions, 2) Understand how personal world beliefs affect interactions with students, especially those who come from diverse backgrounds, and 3) Be acquainted with various classroom management practices that are culturally and linguistically responsive.

Audience: Teachers, Instructional Coaches, Pre-K -12

Social-Emotional Literacy

Date: 1/18/19

Schools need to do more than address the academic needs of today's children: social and emotional skills that students need to get along with peers and with adults need to be integral to daily teaching and learning. Social emotional learning (SEL) is a process through which children acquire the knowledge and skills to recognize and manage their emotions, set and achieve positive goals, demonstrate caring and concern for others, and learn to take ownership of their own behavior. This workshop will present an overview of social-emotional learning; discuss why it is needed in today's schools, and how to integrate an effective SEL program into your daily practice.

ELA: BOOK TALKS

Date: 4/22/19

A book talk is a short presentation about a book with the goal of convincing other people to read it. It's not a formal book report or review. And, it's more persuasive than expository—think sales and marketing. In a book talk, the goal is to engage the listeners and present a fun, exciting, and even suspenseful commercial for your book. A book talk could highlight the plot, like this example featuring the book Smile by Raina Telgemeier. It could focus on a character, like this talk on the book Matilda by Roald Dahl. Or, it could recreate a book's mood to ignite readers' curiosity. This workshop will prepare to the basics of the book talk - student interest inventories, determining reading levels, book selection and presentation. You can then teach your students how to do book talks by modeling the practice. Hand the reins to students by assigning them book talks in partners or as presentations!

ELA: Curriculum Mapping ~ Look Backward, Looking Forward Date: 5/20/19 or 5/29/19

Curriculum Mapping is a procedure for collecting and maintaining a database of the operational curriculum in a school and/or district. It provides the basis for authentic examination of said database (Heidi Hayes Jacobs, 1997). When curriculum mapping becomes a focused, systemic effort, it connects all aspects of the system. This process supports the collaborative inquiry process by encouraging professional conversations in curriculum, instruction, and assessment. Outcomes of this workshop are introductions to Creating a curriculum to support 21st century teaching and learning Aligning all instructional Curriculum Mapping components including Essential Questions, Big Ideas, Content, Skills, Assessments, Activities, and Resources Aligning curriculum, assessment, and instruction to the Common Core Standards

SEAL Training

Date: 2/5/19

This webinar will provide training on the SEAL resource sharing system, managed by the Southeastern New York Library Resources Council. SEAL connects libraries of all types in the Southeastern region—encompassing Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, and Ulster counties—and allows them to easily share books, DVD's, and other resources. This webinar will cover the ins and outs of using the SEAL system, including creating an account, placing requests, lending items, and producing statistics. It will also cover a few copyright basics and the regional codes / procedures governing Inter-library loan in our region.
